

Fulbright Seminar Series

The Fulbright Seminar Series in War and Society explores how societies go to war, experience war, and interpret war and its consequences.

Tuesdays, 5:00-6:30 p.m.

Pembroke College

25 APRIL, Mary Hyde Eccles Room
“The Meaning of War”

Sir Hew Strachan FBA, FRSE
Emeritus Fellow of All Souls College
at the University of Oxford

How do we define war and its meaning in society, both past and present?

9 MAY, Harold Lee Room
“The Limits of War”

Patrick Porter
Professor of International Security and Strategy at University of Birmingham

Why does war seemingly not always deliver what it promises?

2 MAY, Harold Lee Room
“The Culture of War”

Susan L. Carruthers
Professor of U.S./International History
at the University of Warwick

How does war influence a nation’s popular and political cultures?

16 MAY, Harold Lee Room
“The Consequences of War”

Andrew Preston
Professor of American History
at Cambridge University

What are the lasting social, cultural, and political effects of war?

For more information, contact
Professor Gregory A. Daddis, Pembroke College, at gdaddis@sdsu.edu

DPIR
DEPARTMENT OF POLITICS &
INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS