

PEMBROKE

COLLEGE OXFORD

Services and Music MT: October – December 2022

Message from the Chaplain:

Week by week the candles quiver, as the dark stained glass cuts out the light of dusk. It is warm, the golden statues flicker in the light, the building has a congregation - perhaps a handful, perhaps a hundred. The choir troops in, sits on the creaky stalls. O Lord open thou our lips is intoned, and the choir responds. In our intimate chapel services – usually a 1662 version of a tenth-century liturgy, we get gems of poetry, tender language, traditional order, and intimacy, too, in Cranmer's delightful English, and diverse honesty in preaching. We are offered light at the threshold of evening, and it sends another generation of students into hall for dinner with thoughts and impressions of intoned prayers, with the symmetry and gentleness of a liturgy glowing like musical candles amid the shadows of the dazzling darkness of the Chapel. Chapel carries a heart for, and an acceptance of all in the community: it's a gentle steer in our College. That's the motivation for Chapel, not trying to make it relevant, trendy, just for an élite faith-certain crowd, or offering sermons which are chipper, or massively intellectual, or high-brow culture. No – just a gentle steer. Do come and see if it's for you.
